Message from President and Secretary General

The year 2016 has been a challenging and stimulating year for Maldivian Red Crescent, with sharp learning curves. It was also a year that we have been able to expand our reach to the most vulnerable people in our communities including the often forgotten group of foreign workers. Our strength in Disaster Management was further enhanced by now having volunteers trained in Emergency Response in 9 branches across Maldives. Furthermore, the role MRC plays in times of disasters and emergencies has been validated through a formal partnership with National Disaster Management Centre as the proactive humanitarian actor in providing emergency response to any disaster or emergency nation-wide.

In our short lifespan of 8 years as a National Society we have a strong relationship with the public authorities as its auxiliary, and last year opened up more opportunities to enrich this growing relationship. This coming year we hope that we will be able to do more of our work with the government and the local government.

It was also the year that we started construction of our anticipated new building of the National Head-quarters in Hulhumale'. It is estimated to be completed and ready for use before the end of 2017, we hope that this would enable us with more capacity to continue our functions.

Our focus on reaching the most vulnerable was further broadened to include the foreign migrants in our communities who we aimed to reach with our programmes. The partnership with International Organization of Migration (IOM) was very welcome especially at a time that we were shifting to a stronger focus on ensuring no one is left behind in our programmes. We were also pleased to note that the partnership had supported us to diversify our volunteer base to better represent various nationalities that represent the residents of the Maldives.

We would like to highlight the growing interest of our branches and volunteers to develop and implement regular volunteer-led programmes that cater to the unique needs of their communities, contributing to more resilient societies. One such example is Villijoali by the Villimale Unit of Male' Branch which aims to contribute towards a more inclusive and resilient community through regular activities that focus on a variety of areas including public health awareness, youth development and supporting migrants including local and foreign to better integrate to the community.

We are grateful and appreciative to our movement partners, namely the International Federation of Red Cross, the International Committee of Red Cross and partner National Societies for the support and encouragement they give us during the challenging times and helps us to move forward and become a better National Society.

As we continue to be the most present, neutral, impartial, independent, united, volunteer driven humanitarian service provider, we celebrate the highs and take lessons from the lows. We will continue to strengthen our existing system to be better prepared to respond to emergencies. As we believe that this would enable us to be prompt and efficient in providing our services during times of need. We could not have come this far without the tireless efforts and dedication from our volunteers, members and staff. This coming year we aim to be able to broaden our horizons to reach the most vulnerable groups and we sincerely thank everyone who has supported our cause and continue to support us in a multitude of ways.

Unlike other ambulance services in Maldives which provides a door to door service, the service provided by Maldivian Red Crescent ensures that patients assisted are transferred from bed-to-bed.
